Jersey Shore University Medical Center (JSUMC) Hospital at Home pilot

- Hospital at Home is a program that allows for acute inpatient level care to be delivered to the patient in their own home. Care will be provided through a partnership between JSUMC and Hackensack Meridian at Home clinicians.
- If you come into contact with a patient who you believe may be part of the JSUMC program, please contact our Hospital at Home hotline, at (732) 375-4891.
- Should your agency need additional information about this program, we would be glad to meet with you. Please contact Colleen Dooley, APN, MICP, at 908-309-7937 or email Colleen.dooley@hmhn.org.
- OEM – Plan - Essentially, if there's a forecasted event, such as a hurricane, the patients will be brought back to the hospital and no other patients would be entered into the program. In situations where they have for example an extended power outage and they could not remain at home, that's when they are instructed to contact our HMH EMS provider for transport back to the hospital. If there's a no notice event, such as a tornado damaging their home, they are instructed to use the same 9-1-1 system as any other resident.
